Council tightens scrutiny of fire hall construction

BY FRANK DABBS

Didsbury town council has tightened up its scrutiny of the $4-million fire hall construction project after learning second-hand of deletions, changes in scope of work, substitution and cost reductions in windows, insulation, doors, plumbing and other engineering print specifications after they were given out at the tender of a subcontract.

"Are we getting a shack?" asked deputy mayor Joyce McCoy.

"Where is the money going?"

"A design-build project (such as the fire hall) can go off the rails when there are changes," said Coun. Lavar Adams.

Council instructed its two members on the joint Town and Mountain View County Fire Hall Advisory Committee to report in writing on the project at each council meeting.

Council also learned at its Nov. 10 meeting that at least one subcontract bidder has been asked by the general contractor to sign a contract that reads:

"The sub contractor specifically acknowledges that the subcontractor's remuneration is due to them from the building owner and not Provincial Steel Buildings (the general contractor)."

Council passed a motion moved by McCoy directing "that the Fire Advisory Committee (is) to remain responsible for overseeing the responsibilities of building the fire hall and reporting to Council with a written report at each Council Meeting."

Councillors Garth Hollinger and Sheila Schulz are the Town of Didsbury members on the joint fire advisory committee.

Harold Northcott has been appointed the new acting chief administrative officer of Didsbury by Mayor Rick Mousseau and town council. He is the former CAO of Birch Hills County in the Peace Country and the Village of Caroline.

New Didsbury CAO announced by mayor and council

BY FRANK DABBS

Didsbury mayor Rick Mousseau and the town council have hired a veteran municipal executive and former amateur baseball coach and player as the town's new acting chief administrative officer (CAO).

Harold Northcott has been the CAO of Birch Hills County for three and a half years.

Prior to that he was CAO of the Village of Caroline, Summer Village of Burnstick Lake and Gull Lake for three years.

His career in municipal administration began with more than 15 years, from 1991 to 2007 as director of recreation, parks and community services in Rocky Mountain House.

"I and council are pleased that we have recruited Harold and look forward to the leadership and experience that he will bring to Didsbury," said Mayor Rick Mousseau.

"He is an excellent choice as acting CAO for the Town of Didsbury because he brings considerable municipal experience to our community, having worked as CAO for Birch Hills County and the Village of Caroline.

"We are very excited to welcome him to Didsbury," said the mayor.

Northcott and his wife Barb grew up in Central Alberta and were high school sweethearts. They have three children, Dustin, Chad and Heidi.

His baseball career as a left-handed pitcher began in Clive, east of Lacombe.

He played for Team Canada and was named the most valuable player at the 1985 Intercontinental Cup. He also played at the Pacific Rim Cup and the Pan American Games.

Northcott has been a pitching coach for teams at several levels of amateur baseball in Alberta, and for Team Canada in 1992 to 1994 and 1998 to 2001.

He holds a bachelor of science degree in community services and the National Certificate in Local Authority Administration.

"I look forward to working in collaboration with council, staff, residents and municipal neighbours in meeting the challenges ahead as we continue to provide efficient and valued services," Northcott said.

Famous victory and lost paratrooper remembered

BY FRANK DABBS

For 600 people at Didsbury's Nov. 11 Remembrance Day service, the familiar ritual had a face, Master-Cpl. Bryon Greff, and a place, Vimy Ridge.

The annual service had a new venue with a move from the all purpose room at the Memorial Complex to the more spacious and comfortable sanctuary of the Zion Evangelical Missionary Church.

The sanctuary was a sea of uniforms from Scouts and Cubs to RCMP members in body vests, and colours - RCMP red serge, fire department and police navy blue, the royal purple of the Elks and army green of the cadets.

In a compelling address, Capt. David Kenney, the commanding officer of the Didsbury 3025 Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps that hosted the event, focused his remarks on Master-Cpl. Greff, and the battle for Vimy Ridge in April 1917.

Bryon Greff was the 158th Canadian casualty in Afghanistan, said Capt. Kenney.

"He used to be one of my cadets. He aged out of the cadet program and went into the Canadian Forces.

"I remember others who like him have died, and you do too. Whether it's World War II, the Korean conflict, on peacekeeping missions, many people are remembered here today."

In a later interview, Kenney said that he and his sons knew Greff as he grew up in Lacombe and was a member of the Red Deer Army Cadet corps that Kenney commanded and included his Farmers, ranchers and their workers want to return home safely after working hard all day.

We want to help. That's why we're proposing changes to laws that keep farm and ranch workers safe and ensure they're treated fairly.

- Ensuring farm and ranch accidents can be properly investigated so they can be prevented.
- Making sure farm and ranch workers can still support their families if they're injured on the job.
- Protecting farm and ranch owners against the impact of workplace injuries and illnesses.

If approved, laws that govern workplace safety and Workers' Compensation Board insurance coverage would apply to farm and ranch workers as of January 1, 2016.

We also want your views on how we can work with employers to make lives better for farm and ranch workers. For example:

- How should hours of work for farms and ranches be regulated?
- How should vacation leave work on farms and ranches?
- How do we make these changes while protecting family farms and ranches?

A town hall session will be held Wednesday, December 2 from 1:00-4:00 pm: Best Western Plus Okotoks Inn & Suites, 100 Southbank Road
Space is limited, pre-registration is encouraged.

In his speech, Kenney also talked about the Canadian victory at Vimy Ridge, won by 97,000 Canadian soldiers under Canadian command for the first time.

The Canadians drove the Germans off the ridge after British and French soldiers failed, and the expression "the Canadians are in the line" became a battlefield watchword on that day, said Kenney.

Canada was 50 years old, but it became a nation on that day because for the first time, Canadians from coast to coast accomplished something great together, he said.

The service had all the traditional rituals of Remembrance Day in Didsbury.

The Valley Voices sang popular wartime songs and hymns, and a soloist did John Lennon's Imagine.

There were readings of the poems In Flanders Fields by John McCrae and For the Fallen by Lawrence Binyon.

Legionnaire and Second World War veteran Bill Jepps read Didsbury's Honour Roll of local men who were casualties in the Great War, the Second World War and the Korean conflict. A recorded bugler played Last Post and Reveille and piper Daniel Anderson piped the Lament.

The gathering observed the traditional two minutes of silence at 11 a.m., the time when on Nov. 11, 1918, the Armistice ended the First World War.

Representatives of the Canadian and Alberta governments, Town of Didsbury, Mountain View County, Didsbury Fire Department, Elks, the Didsbury Museum, First Nations, Zion church and several families laid wreaths.

Pastor Mike Morgan welcomed the gathering to the Zion church with these words from the Old Testament book of Deuteronomy: "You may say to yourself, 'My power and the strength of my hands have produced this wealth for me.' But remember the Lord your God, for it is he who gives you the ability to produce wealth..."

When times are good, said Pastor Morgan, it is easy to forget the source of the good things in our lives.

The gathering took his words to heart and Nov. 11 in Didsbury became a day of, in the words of one cadet, "remembering and being thankful."

Wreath adorned by an eagle feather and laid at the community Remembrance Day ceremony on behalf of the First Nations by Barb Dodman, a Metis elder.

RCMP Const. Caitlin MacKinnon lays a wreath on behalf of the Government of Canada at the community's Remembrance Day service in Didsbury's Zion Church Nov. 11.

New book from author with Didsbury roots

BY FRANK DABBS
MVP Staff

Donita Wiebe-Neufeld, who grew up on a farm near Didsbury, has released a new children's Christmas book about a cat that changes a lonely man's life.

Wiebe-Neufeld, journalist, author and a Mennonite pastor in Edmonton, attended Didsbury High School and was an active Mennonite, including preaching sermons.

She studied for the ministry at the University of Winnipeg. For 16 years she has been the Alberta correspondent for Canadian Mennonite magazine. She and her husband Tim are the co-ministers of First Mennonite Church in Edmonton.

Thirty Bucks is her second book. In 1996, with Tim she co-wrote Keeping the Garden: A Faith Response to God's Creation.

In Thirty Bucks, Mr. Hermit, so nicknamed by the neighbourhood children, is a widower who keeps to himself until three desperate children ask him to care for a homeless cat on Christmas Eve when the animal shelters are full.

The children offer him the 30 bucks that the animal shelter charges to care for the cat while they are away from home for the holiday.

Every time Mr. Hermit opens his door, the cat escapes. While retrieving Thirty Bucks, the lonely man meets his neighbours, and therein hangs the tale.

The author keeps a website, www.donitawiebeneufeld.com that includes information on how to buy the book online.

Baby kit, mentors help first-time parents

BY FRANK DABBS
MVP Staff

Concerned that nearly 29 per cent of children entering school have "great difficulty" with physical, social, emotional or intellectual skill development, a two-year project is helping first-time moms and dads help their kids.

Didsbury children are especially vulnerable, scoring higher as a group on all measures of developmental difficulty than the Alberta average.

Researchers found that 53.7 per cent of Didsbury children entering school had difficulty with communications and general knowledge skills compared to the norm, 49.6 per cent had difficulty in language and thinking skills, 36 per cent with emotional maturity, 31 per cent with social competence and 30 per cent were below the norm in their physical health and well-being.

The research is based on a questionnaire for each child filled in by kindergarten teachers.

A partnership of the University of Calgary, Alberta's 11 ParentLink centres and the provincial government is offering a Welcome to Parenthood program that gives the expectant parents a kit full of helpful stuff like diapers, a sleeper, a cuddling blanket, books on pregnancy and parenting and a baby thermometer, and pairs the new mom with a mentor that she selects, from her friends, family or community.

The kit comes in a box that can be used as a bassinet for the first months of a baby's life so that it can sleep near but not in the parents' bed.

It includes a "baby manual" for dads that is like the manual that comes with a new car and gives helpful information on important topics like baby burping, diaper changes and when to resume sex with the new mom.

The mentor provides support such as caring for the baby so the mom can shower, doing shopping and helping with emergencies when the dad is away.

The mentor helps out, ideally, from the 30th week of pregnancy to six months into the baby's life, and keeps a journal that will give researchers insight.

A common problem in Alberta that the mentor can help with is that new parents are often at a distance from extended family to assist with and advise on childcare, said Jennifer Lanthier of Mountain View ParentLink in Didsbury.

"This is all about helping moms and dads help their children to grow up to be the best that they can be," said Dr. Karen Benzies, dean of research at the University of Calgary and driving force behind the project partnership.

"Life is stressful and parents are better with support, hence the tagline we use for the project, 'Let's do it together'."

The problem in Alberta is not income-related, said Benzies, citing the cases of children cared for by nannies who don't speak English well. These children often develop language and communication difficulties.

The kit and mentorship program is based on research into how the brain develops, said Benzies.

The kit and mentorship program will run for two years and the data collected will support a decision to fund it permanently said Deb Goerzen, who has been engaged to assist with the project in Didsbury.

"We have 100 boxes for Mountain View, and the hope is to give each Alberta baby a box," Goerzen explained.

Three moms spoken to by the Didsbury Review agreed that, "If you could live on one income, one parent could stay home and be a parent."

"It is especially difficult for a single parent to find the time and strength to read to their children or help with homework, much less attend games they play in," one mom said.

Firefighters mentor young careers

Mikaela Manser puts on her fire gear.

Noel West/MVP Staff

BY FRANK DABBS
MVP Staff

The town's volunteer fire department is a career starting point for four Didsbury High School students who are in the department's cadet training program this autumn and winter.

Austin Milljour, Allyson Dunn, Neely Hardie and Mikaela Manser are the four probationary cadets. Under the eye of training officer Kyle Leeson the four are learning the basics of firefighting and the "second family" culture of the fire hall.

Cadet training is an opportunity to evaluate a college education for, and career in police, emergency medical response, the military or full-time firefighting, said the students Nov. 11 during a break from their weekly Wednesday night training session.

"I grew up with a dad who was a volunteer firefighter in Olds and I wish I had had an opportunity like this when I was in high school, said Leeson.

Milljour plans to be a firefighter and in due course he will apply to, probably, the Calgary Fire Department.

Dunn is considering a career as a paramedic. Manser is evaluating the choice between police and paramedics.

The cadet program trains the students in all the basic skills. One evening the students might be rolling up and stowing hoses, on another they might be learning rope knots, on another they might be taught how to wear and use air packs.

Fitness is a firefighting fundamental and the cadets are being whipped into top physical condition.

"The physical conditioning motivates me to become stronger," said Manser.

"I can be better, said Dunn. "One night we were carrying hoses and ladders. My arms were like jelly when I was finished the task, but I finished!"

At the fire hall they are developing a working relationship with adults who treat them as peers.

Probationary peers, maybe, but "they are our peers, not our parents," said Manser.

The fire hall is no longer just for white guys; women are equal members of the team, said Leeson.

In that context the female cadets say they have found other women who aren't their parents that they can talk to in a safe environment, Manser explained.

"No matter what your status as a firefighter, you are family here," said Dunn.

Parents can understand the second family, Milljour said.

There will be an easier entree into trucking careers in the West for Canadian Forces veterans thanks to an agreement between Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The western provinces now recognize Department of Defence training and testing, allowing military truckers to transfer their credentials to civilian life without further qualifications.

The change applies to retired and active members of the Canadian Forces and went into effect in June.

A DND 404 licence now converts to Alberta driver's licence classes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. These classes allow truckers to drive semi-tractors, large trucks, buses and limousines.

"We are helping those who have sacrificed so much to make an easier transition to well-paying jobs," said Alberta Transportation Minister Brian Mason.

"As the industry faces a shortage of experienced and qualified professionals we welcome the opportunity to provide employment to these former members of the military," said Dan Duckering, the chairman of the Alberta Motor Association.

In the first five months of the new regulations, 50 veterans including 34 in Alberta have taken advantage of the provision.

A class 4 licence permits a driver to operate a taxi, ambulance and a bus with fewer than 25 passengers.

Class 3 licences are for vehicles with three or more axles but without air brakes, a taxi, an ambulance and a bus without passengers.

A class 2 licence allows a driver to operate all vehicles covered by classes 3, 4 and 5 and buses with more than 25 passengers.

Class 1 is good for any vehicle other than a motorcycle.

KOOSEY

Frank Joseph Koosey of Carstairs, Alberta passed away peacefully, surrounded by his family on November 8, 2015 at the age of 92 years. Frank was born on February 8, 1923 in the Dalroy area. His interest in aviation led him to serve in the Canadian Airforce in 1942. Frank homesteaded in the Peace River area prior to setting up the family farm in Carstairs in 1953, where he continued to live until his passing. Frank's love of farming was only surpassed by his devotion to his family. Frank is survived by his loving wife of 62 years Shirley (nee Desson) and their children Carlene (Ken), David (Shelly), Gwen (David) and Wayne (Marilyn); grandchildren Chelsie, Devin, Meghann, Trent, Matthew and Miranda; great grandchildren Myrik and Abby; and brothers Anton and Adolph. The family would like to express their appreciation for the care given by the staff from the Olds Hospital and the S.T.A.R.S. Air Ambulance. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to S.T.A.R.S. Air Ambulance - Calgary base (www.stars.ca). A celebration of Frank's life will be held on Wednesday November 18, 2015 at 4 p.m. at the Carstairs Community Centre.
